Foundation donates school items to orphans

By SUSAN MMARY

THE Lalji Foundation has donated school items including uniforms to students for various orphanages in Dar es Salaam to support government's efforts in its determination to improve the quality of education in the country.

The items were provided to 400 students from nine orphanages located in Kigamboni District.

Speaking yesterday during the event, Kigamboni Member of Parliament, Dr Faustin Ndugulile, thanked the foundation for supporting the orphans in nine centres by giving them school uniforms, bags, shoes and socks. The aim is to make them learn smoothly and enjoy the right to access to education.

Dr Ndugulile said the government is looking forward to seeing other organisations providing support by reaching more children in various centres so as to make sure the group is fully supported in its quest to acquire education.

"This has come as a result of the government effort but also due to various challenges that orphans face. It is high time we supported the group," he said.

Patron of Lalji Foundation and a leader of Lalji family, Mr Mohsin Lalji said the foundation supports the government's vision by ensuring that students get their basic needs and obtain quality education.

"We thank the government for having this vision which can be implemented by both non-governmental and governmental organisations, it is through the help provided that students are studying in a good environment," he said.

Mr Mohsin said: "By providing good education to children we are going to build a society that has professional doctors, pilots, and politicians, among others, who will help the country to achieve its economic goals."

He said building good education environment is a long-term task that requires the cooperation among the government, religious leaders and non-governmental organisations to ensure that Tanzania becomes a better nation.

He noted; "The achievements we see is due to the hard work done by the President Dr Samia Suluhu Hassan and her government in ensuring the nation achieves its goals."

On other hand, Dar es Salaam Sheikh Walid Alhad Omary said it is high time people gave back to the society.

"People should volunteer and help the orphans not only in the education sector but also in other aspect of life as they need our help. It should be remembered that they are the future parents, when you help them today you have helped the future generation," he said.
